

QingDao, China has changed a lot through 2004 till now. What has changed are high-rise buildings, subways and buses, and wide roads and bridges; what has not changed is the blue sky and blue sea, and the fragrance of beer. Qingdao people still love to take a bath in the sea.

The first picture tells the process of city construction and a period of fast developing of street facades.

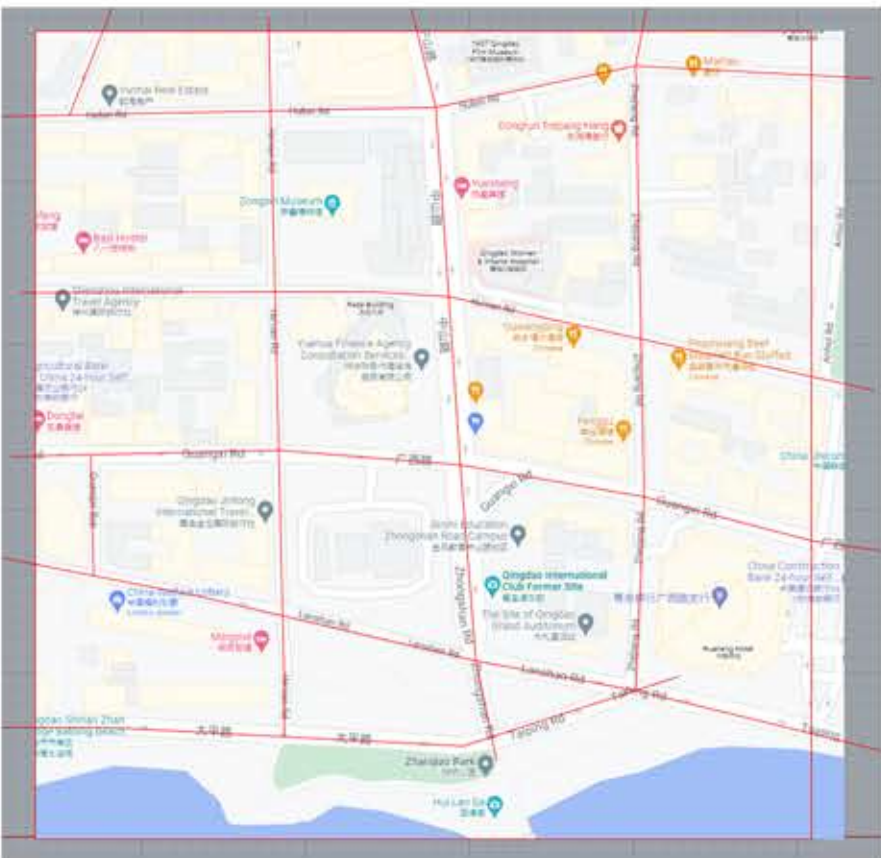

The middle image presents a streetcar which is a memorable vehicle for local residents.

Adolescent Picture (moving through the city)

Meaningful Childhood Object Picture

City Street Grid Single-Line Curves (500m x 500m)

STORY.

From the View of A Street Sanitation Worker

STREET LIFE
Entertainment
Chat
Rest
...